a one-day conference
the legacy of

HOWARD THURMAN

SPEAKING PEACE AT A TIME OF WAR

HOWARD THURMAN believed that personal spiritual renewal was important to the liberation process and that inward liberation was a prerequisite for social transformation. During a crucial period in the American Civil Rights Movement, he acted as an advisor, counselor and mentor to leaders within the movement. The date of this conference is important for it serves as a reminder of ideals that serve to divide us. Instead, we will dialogue on the progressive, radical, and reconciliatory ideals of this great man as he still speaks to a contemporary community. Come and share with us as we journey toward finding greater meaning in our lives.
